PURPOSE OF THE REPORT

The purpose of this report is to present to the Board of Directors, for discussion and approval, the new Equality, Diversity, and Inclusion (EDI) Strategy for Sheffield Teaching Hospitals NHS FT (STH) 2021 - 2025. The strategy is at Appendix 1.

KEY POINTS

This EDI strategy reflects the Trusts commitment to ensuring that our services are fully accessible and that they meet the diverse needs of the people we serve. It also aims to positively promote inclusivity and ensure our treatment pathways are always personalised and meet individual needs. Additionally, the strategy identifies our workforce aspirations and establishes our priority areas to support and promote diversity and inclusion for all staff.

The development of this strategy was delayed due to the impact of COVID-19 where understandably the attention and priority was to ensure that staffs time was focussed on responding to the unprecedented pressures.

Events during 2020 shone a spotlight on racism and the inequalities that exist within our society, particularly within the context of the disproportionate impact of the COVID-19 pandemic, which has further reinforced the need for us to develop a much bolder strategy to secure equality, diversity and inclusion for our patients, staff and communities.

The strategy was circulated to a wide range of stakeholders including senior managers, board members, directors, governors, staff side, staff network members and chairs and made available to all staff through staff and manager bulletins and the Good Health Magazine to all of our 12,035 Trust membership. In addition, we have sought feedback from external partner organisations including Voluntary Action Sheffield, Sheffield Healthwatch, Sheffield's City EDI Leads Network, Sheffield Accountable Care Partnership, South Yorkshire Police and Sheffield Children's Hospital.

Those contacted were able to access a copy of the draft strategy along with a questionnaire, which asked for comments on the overall strategy and areas of work relating to: -

- COVID-19 and the Vaccination rollout
- Service User Access and Experience
- Achieving Cultural Change
- Representative and Supported Workforce and
- Inclusive Leadership

A total of 300 responses were received. 92% of these were from STH colleagues, from across all levels and job roles within the organisation. 8% of responses were from other stakeholders including Sheffield City Council, Sheffield Accountable Care Partnership and South Yorkshire Police.

A main theme of the feedback was that the new strategy was very much welcomed. There was overwhelming support for it and general agreement with its structure, the main themes and areas of priority. A common response related to the absence of any formal metrics or performance indicators, however these will be contained within the strategy's action plan. Following feedback, the strategy was strengthened in terms of a greater focus on specific protected characteristics for example gender equality.

We would like to thank everyone who contributed to the development of our strategy and for taking the time to comment. The previous draft version of the strategy has been amended to take on board the comments received from the consultation and also has been modified to reflect the feedback received from the Trust Executive Group. The final version for Board of Directors review and approval is attached as appendix 1.

The delivery of this strategy against agreed metrics and timeframes will be overseen by the EDI Board as part of the planned agenda. A more formal review will be conducted annually to ensure that it remains fit for purpose and takes account of any new requirements or changes to legislation, standards (new or revised), government consultation / feedback, health inequality outcomes and data or information.

Following Board of Directors approval, the new EDI Strategy will be made available on our public website. Work will also begin to create a detailed action plan to show how, over the four years of the strategy, we will achieve our EDI commitments and aspirations.

Foreword by the Chief Executive

There is a great deal to be proud of at Sheffield Teaching Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust. We are one of the largest local employers with close to 18,500 staff who provide the full range of hospital and community services for adults in Sheffield, as well as specialist care for patients from further afield including cancer, spinal cord injuries, renal and cardiothoracic services.

From a personal perspective, I am incredibly excited to put my name to this first strategy on Equality, Diversity & Inclusion (EDI). I have relished the opportunities since I took up post two years ago to see the EDI Board established and the Staff Networks flourish. And the reason for this is that I want every employee to be able to state with confidence that they are proud to be working for Sheffield Teaching Hospital NHS Foundation Trust and that they can bring their whole selves to work. I want every patient to believe that they are treated with fairness, dignity and respect throughout their journey with us and that they are in receipt of the very best care that the NHS can offer them.

Events during 2020 shone a spotlight on racism and the inequalities that exist within our society, particularly within the context of the disproportionate impact of the COVID pandemic, which has further reinforced the need for us to develop a much bolder strategy to secure equality, diversity and inclusion for our patients, staff and communities.

We are all committed to taking our responsibilities seriously and we will do what it takes to make real and long lasting improvements. Our PROUD values put the patient first in all that we do but we are also aware that, in order to effectively achieve this, we must be an employer that listens to, understands and meets the needs of our staff. We value each other and therefore need to ensure there is equal respect as well as equity of access and opportunity for everyone.

To enable this to happen we must be diverse, inclusive and equitable. We have to reflect the communities and individuals who we serve, otherwise we will not meet their needs. We must also be efficient and effective and a crucial part of this is for us to appreciate talent in all its forms. We also need to go further to develop our understanding of our communities and we will do this by working in partnership.

Diversity, therefore, is about everyone and, as a publicly funded service, delivering for everyone is key to our core purpose of providing great quality health care.

This strategy is an integral part of our vision for the future and I am confident that, as a result, we will be better equipped to deliver our aspirations as a Trust. I know I speak on behalf of the Board of Directors in saying that this strategy is of fundamental importance to us as a Trust and we'll be monitoring our progress regularly to ensure it is delivered.

Introduction

This strategy reflects the Trust's commitment to ensuring that our services are fully accessible and that they meet the diverse needs of the people we serve. It also aims to positively promote inclusivity and ensure our treatment pathways are always personalised and meet individual needs. Additionally, it identifies our workforce aspirations and establishes our priority areas to support and promote diversity and inclusion for all staff.

This strategy is built around the four goals stipulated by the Equality Delivery System for the NHS (EDS2), which looks at service user health outcomes, patient experience and access to our services, as well as how representative and supported our leadership and workforce is. The strategy supports the Trust's requirement to meet its obligations under the Equality Act 2010 and incorporates the mandatory requirements for the Workforce Race Equality Standard (WRES), Workforce Disability Equality Standard (WDES) and the Accessible Information Standards.

It provides an overview of our achievements to date and the objectives and targets that we have set for the next 4 years in relation to all of the groups protected within the Equality Act 2010.

The implementation of this strategy, and achieving the priorities within it, will ensure that all members of our staff feel enabled and supported in their role which will result in the delivery of high quality person centred care for our patients.

Our vision

Our vision is to have a workforce that fully reflects the communities we serve and a workplace culture in which everyone feels valued and is treated with fairness and respect, where we collectively work to eradicate gender-based discrimination, misogyny and sexism; racism, homophobia, trans-phobia, ageism, and disablism etc. ensuring that barriers to progression are identified and addressed and for STH to be an exemplar of best practice.

We are achieving our vision by...

- Developing robust ways to manage performance and ensuring that all areas embed EDI best practice
- Ensuring there is visible leadership of EDI, that people are leading by example and that we achieve what we say we will within the deadlines agreed
- Building strong community connections and networks so that our activity is informed by conversations with local people and partners and our PROUD values help influence partner organisations
- Embedding a zero tolerance approach to any form of discrimination, bullying, harassment and victimisation and bringing people together to create a social movement for change
- Building the EDI capability of every member of staff so that we are all confident to challenge when we witness language or behaviour that doesn't fit with the Trusts' PROUD values, using positive action to build a diverse workforce, ensuring access to opportunities for current staff, supporting our Staff Network Groups and ensuring that we support our Disabled colleagues with reasonable adjustments
- Embedding an effective way of measuring and evaluating what we are achieving and what impact we are having across the organisation

The business case

Sheffield Teaching Hospitals, as with other public sector organisations, has a legal duty under the Equality Act 2010 as well as compelling moral and social reasons for implementing an effective approach to ensuring equality, diversity and inclusion. However, there are also real business benefits:

- It enables STH to provide effective and efficient services tailored to meet the needs of the communities we serve, therefore saving time, money and staff resources.
- By valuing the contribution of everyone and treating staff with dignity and respect, we increase retention rates and reduce costs associated with high levels of turnover as well as reducing absenteeism and increasing motivation and loyalty. Staff will go along the extra mile if they feel connected to and supported by the Trust.
- Good equalities practice and an inclusive culture saves the Trust time spent on grievances, disciplinaries, dismissals and Employment Tribunal cases. Staff who feel that the Trust takes them seriously, is committed to anti-discriminatory practice and that values and treats them properly will have greater confidence to challenge bad practice and will also have more trust in the processes to tackle unfairness and discrimination.

There have been a number of significant and agenda changing issues and events taking place both in the UK and globally over the last few years which have further highlighted that the time to properly address issues of inequality and discrimination is now. The Black Lives Matter movement has opened peoples eyes to the damaging impact of racism on our communities. The 'Me Too' campaign and other recent events that have brought into question the safety and security of women confirm that we have much to do to tackle sexism and misogyny. We are committed to taking action to address these issues and will work in partnership to do all that we can to influence positive societal change.

The COVID-19 pandemic has shone an even brighter spotlight on health inequalities. NHS organisations, as detailed in the 2021/22 priorities and operational planning guidance, need to develop population health management approaches that will address inequalities in access, experience and outcomes. Partnership working is key to this and we are committed to working with our colleagues across health and social care and beyond.

The delivery of this strategy will be overseen by the EDI Board and will be reviewed annually to ensure that it remains fit for purpose and takes account of any new requirements or changes to legislation, standards (new or revised), government consultation/feedback, health inequality outcomes and data or information.

Monitoring and review

This strategy will be subject to review and evaluation on a yearly basis. The priority objectives set out in this strategy are fluid and will be prioritised in accordance with STH's Corporate Strategy. The EDI Board has ownership of and responsibility for the implementation of this strategy. A detailed action plan, with metrics, indicators and timescales, will be produced and monitored by the EDI Board on a regular basis.

Legal and national standards

There are a number of legal requirements and national standards obligations that the Trust must meet to eliminate discrimination, and advance equality and cohesion. The table below summaries these requirements and what they mean for the Trust.

LEGAL REQUIREMENTS

Human Rights Act 1998

The Human Rights Act aims to give further effect in UK law to the rights contained in the European Convention of Human Rights. Public authorities must make sure they respect and protect your human rights when they provide health and care services. This may involve taking positive steps to ensure your human rights aren't breached.

Equality Act 2010

The Equality Act 2010 outlaws discrimination based on access to goods and services as well as employment, on the basis of the protected characteristics.

The Public Sector Equality Duty (PSED) requires public bodies to have due regard to the need to:

- Eliminate discrimination, harassment, and victimisation.
- Advance equality of opportunity.
- Foster good relations between persons who share a relevant protected characteristic and persons who do not share it.

Specific duties require us to:

- Publish information to demonstrate compliance with the PSED annually.
- Prepare and publish equality objectives at least every four years.

NHS Accessible Information Standard

The NHS Accessible Information Standard (AIS) was introduced in 2016 to make sure that people with a disability or sensory loss are given information in a way they can understand and that their communication needs are met. It is now the law for the NHS and adult social care services to comply with AIS.

Gender Pay Gap Regulations 2018

All employers with 250 or more employees are required to comply with reporting and action planning each year on seven metrics.

This covers: mean gender pay gap; median gender pay gap; mean bonus gender pay gap; median bonus gender pay gap; the proportion of men in the organisation receiving a bonus payment; the proportion of women the organisation receiving a bonus payment; the proportion of men and women in each quartile pay band.

NATIONAL STANDARDS

Equality Delivery System

The NHS Equality Delivery System (EDS) is a set of outcomes grouped under goals to help NHS organisations improve the services they provide for their local communities and provide better working environments, free of discrimination, for those who work in the NHS. Trusts are required to carry out annual assessment of their performance against some or all of the outcomes and report the results.

NHS Workforce Race Equality Standard

The EDS is currently being reviewed and EDS3 will be published in 2021.

The NHS Workforce Race Equality Standard (WRES) was introduced in 2014/2015 and included in the NHS Standard Contract for NHS Providers in 2015/2016.

It comprises of nine metrics supporting Ethnic Minority staff in relation to recruitment, career development and training and addresses negative outcomes relating to disciplinary process and the disproportionate impact of harassment, bullying and victimisation.

The NHS Workforce Disability Equality Standard

The NHS Workforce Disability Equality Standard (WDES) was established in 2019. It comprises a set of metrics that enables a comparison of the experiences of our disabled and non-disabled staff, with the aim of ensuring equitable and positive outcomes, reporting is annually

Sexual Orientation Monitoring Standard

The NHS Sexual Orientation Monitoring Standard (SOM) was introduced in 2017. The SOM provides a consistent mechanism for recording the sexual orientation of all patients/service users aged 16 years and above to better identify health risks and will help support targeted preventative and early intervention work to address the health inequalities for people who are Lesbian, Gay or Bisexual.

The NHS People Plan

The NHS People Plan provides national, regional and local actions for 2020/21 to support the NHS workforce. Published in July 2020, the plan focuses on equality and tackling inequalities throughout. Following its release, additional guidance to support the implementation of the People Plan has been published by NHS England and Improvement titled 'Implementing Phase 3 of the NHS response to the COVID-19 pandemic' (published August 2020). The plan acknowledges the challenges that we have faced as a result of COVID-19 and provides a shared purpose in order to drive change moving forward. It particularly focuses on the existing inequalities that impact on Ethnic Minority communities and staff that have been highlighted during the pandemic. As part of the plan, NHS organisations are expected to create a compassionate and inclusive culture in the workforce. As a Trust, this has reinforced our commitment to creating an inclusive culture.
